

ADVANTAGE

Great boys growing into great men of integrity, faith, wisdom and compassion

Take advantage of ...

- 21st century boarding - responding to the needs of students and parents.
- Flexible arrangements and open communication between school and parents.
- Structured supervision and study make boarding in Years 11 and 12 an attractive, positive opportunity.
- 21st century boarding at Knox has Boarders in Years 11 and 12 from metropolitan Sydney, rural and regional NSW and overseas.
- All boarders enjoy a home at school with first class facilities within the grounds of the school in Wahroonga, 25km north of the Sydney CBD.
- Boarders in Years 11 and 12 from the greater metropolitan area enjoy the best of both worlds - supervised study, extra tuition, access to school facilities and programs and they can return home frequently for quality time with their family. Parents can watch their son's co-curricular sport or debating or drama. Importantly Boarders can also save up to two hours a day travelling time - valuable time which can be used for study and relaxation.

- It all adds up to an advantage. Boarder results reveal a consistent pattern of superior academic achievement.

The Class of 2008

In the 2008 HSC almost 5% of students achieved a UAI of 99 or more with 20% of the cohort achieving over 95. The top Boarder UAI was 97.50.

Our top achievers not only did well in English and the Humanities, Science and Mathematics but achieved extraordinary results in Drama, Visual Arts, Design and Technology and Agriculture.

Most boarders exceeded their expectations and gained admittance to the universities of their choice to study Engineering, Arts and Economics among others.

Post HSC some boys are undertaking an overseas GAP year, before commencing their tertiary studies, and are working in English boarding schools.

Angus Wyllie (above), Day Boy, Year 10

"I have decided to become a boarder next year.

My brother was a boarder and I have seen the positive effects it has had on him. From the day he moved into boarding, his grades began a steady climb, his social skills improved and he began to grow into everything I envisaged of a well-rounded young man.

The regimented study timetable, fantastic mentors and brilliant 21st century boarding environment are not possible within the confines of normal school life, and they are all aspects which I cannot wait to experience."

Those vital years

Parents, you can have confidence that the wide range of electives available at Knox will suit your son's individual interests and needs for post secondary education and employment. You can also be sure that the structured study times and access to teachers and facilities will enhance your son's academic performance.
